

Photography Notes The authorship of the majority of image files on this website belongs to Norman McNab unless otherwise indicated. The great majority of images have been taken with a full frame Canon 5D(Mk I & II) digital camera and the original RAW files exist also as profiled sRGB uncompressed TIFs, ranging in size from 24 to 90MB. The high compression copying required for internet display results in a significant reduction in image quality, however the original files can easily support production of large format high quality 300dpi prints. Copying for any purpose, without prior permission, is strictly forbidden. However all reasonable requests for copies will be considered sympathetically. In particular where commercial travel/hospitality organisations wish to use any image on this site, for any purpose, which directly or indirectly promotes travel on the West Highland Lines, image files can be supplied for a modest charge as a donation to Society funds. For other commercial or private use a charge will also apply. The actual charge will depend on the intended application. Application, with details, can be made by email to dicrossley72@gmail.com
